NFS reports progress with enhanced safety measures at Tenn. plant

NEI SmartBrief | 09/25/2009

Nuclear Fuel Services is making strides with the "Safety Culture Improvement Plan" implemented at its facility in Erwin, Tenn., company President Dave Kudsin said. Speaking during a meeting with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Kudsin reported that the site has gotten positive results from performance indicators and metrics. In general, NFS is running the plant "in a manner that adequately protects the health and safety of the workers and of the public," said NRC official Joe Shea.
